If you fail or refuse to provide your personal data we need to provide the Services to you or if the processing of personal data is necessary for compliance with our legal obligations (e.g. compliance with anti money laundering rules), you will not be able to access the Services.

4. Cookies

We may use cookies for various purposes when you access or use the Services. Please review our Cookie Policy to find out more about our use of cookies.

5. Sources of personal data

Most of the personal data we process about you is received directly from you. For example, when you register to use the Services or communicate with us, we may receive your identity and contact data from you.

In other cases, we may receive personal data about you from various third parties and publicly accessible sources, including but not limited to social media, search engines, company registers, banks, payment service providers, KYC service providers, advertising networks, analytics providers and screening data vendors.

When you use the Services we may also automatically collect technical data through the use of cookies and similar technologies.

6. Automated decision-making with respect to your personal data

To offer you the Services and comply with our obligations under applicable laws, we will make a decision about you based solely on automated processing. Such cases include:

1. When you submit your economic and appropriateness data in the relevant questionnaire, our system will automatically make a decision whether you can be allowed to trade. We may deny your access to the Services due to lack of experience and/or knowledge.
2. Our anti-fraud systems may automatically detect patterns that may suggest fraudulent activities with respect to your account. We will warn you about such activities to prevent possible fraud.
3. Our systems automatically determine the client's risk profile based on a number of risk factors we consider in accordance with the laws and our internal procedures. The risk score allows Capital to determine the appropriate customer due diligence procedures it must follow.

7. How do we protect your personal data?

We take all reasonable and appropriate technical and organisational measures to protect all personal data collected by us from loss, theft, misuse and unauthorised access, disclosure, alteration and destruction.

8. How long do we keep your personal data?

Generally, we will retain your personal data for as long as necessary to fulfil the specific purpose we collected it for, including the purpose of satisfying any legal, accounting, reporting requirements and our legitimate interests. For example, your personal data will be generally stored for the period required by the Money Laundering, Terrorist Financing and Transfer of Funds (Information on the Payer) Regulations 2017 or the Rules of the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA), namely not less than 5 years after the end of the business relationship with Capital.com. We may store certain personal data for not less than 6 years to meet our book keeping obligations under the tax legislation of the UK.

In certain cases the authorities may require us to store the personal data longer if they deem necessary (e.g. in case of an ongoing investigation). If you have not been actively making use of our financial services for 5 - 6 years (depending on the data), we will remove any details that will identify you or we will securely destroy the records, unless we substantiate why we need the data for a longer period of time.

9. Your rights

With regards to our collection and processing of your personal data you have the right to (subject to applicable exceptions):

1. Obtain confirmation from us as to whether we process your personal data.
2. Access your personal data processed by Capital.com.
3. Correct your personal data.
4. Withdraw consent and remove your personal data we collected on the basis of your consent.
5. Obtain restriction of processing, for instance, where you contest the accuracy of your personal data for a period enabling us to verify the accuracy of the personal data,
6. Have your personal data transmitted directly from one controller to another, where technically feasible and when doing so does not adversely affect the rights and freedoms of others.
7. Erasure of your personal data under certain circumstances. Capital.com is obligated by the UK authorities to keep records of client's details and trades for a minimum period of five to six (5-6) years from the end of business relationship with you according to the relevant regulations. See more information about our data retention obligations in section "How long do we keep your personal data" above.
8. Object to the processing of your personal data which is based on the legitimate interests, unless we can demonstrate compelling legitimate grounds for the processing.

If you wish to make use of any of the above rights please contact our compliance department stating your account number and question related to any of the above rights at: gdpr.uk@capital.com.

Capital.com will endeavour to provide you with information on the actions it has taken on your request with respect to your rights, specified above, within one month of receipt of the request. That period may be extended by two further months if the request is complex, or if Capital.com is in the process of resolving a large number of requests. We will inform you if any such extension is required within one month of receipt of the request, together with the reasons for the delay.

10. How do we share your personal data?

We do not share your personal information with third parties, except as described in this Privacy Policy.

Capital.com is part of the Capital.com Group of companies that all have a role in offering a complete service to our clients. For this reason, the Company may share information with its subsidiaries or affiliated companies, including those located outside the UK or European Economic Area (EEA), in the event such information is reasonably required by the subsidiary to provide the Services to you.

In case your personal data is provided to subsidiaries and service providers outside the UK or the EEA, we will implement appropriate safeguards to protect your personal data, including Standard Contractual Clauses as adopted by the European Commission. Please contact us if you want further information on the specific mechanism used by us when transferring your personal data out of the UK or EEA. Moreover, Capital requires its service providers to implement appropriate security measures to ensure the protection of your personal data in accordance with applicable data protection legislation.

When required by the applicable laws, we may disclose your personal data to the relevant government agencies and regulatory authorities, including but not limited to the UK Financial Intelligence Unit (UK FIU) and the FCA.

Some of our service providers require us to include information about their privacy practices in our Privacy Policy:

- ComplyAdvantage. We may use ComplyAdvantage for customer screening and monitoring. Please refer to ComplyAdvantage's Privacy Policy to learn more about how ComplyAdvantage handles your personal data.
- GBG. We may use GBG to verify information you give to us during the onboarding process. We do so to prevent fraud and comply with our AML obligations. Please refer to GBG's Privacy Policy to learn more about how GBG handles your personal data.

11. Privacy Policy updates

Capital.com may update this Privacy Policy from time to time.
